ACHS FFA Chapter Members Received State Farmer Degree

Ceremony Held Wednesday Night

Thirteen members of the Appomattox County High School chapter of FFA have received the degree of State Farmer, highest degree that the Virginia Association of FFA may confer upon a member, in a special ceremony held Wednesday night, June 20, on the V.P.I. & S.U. Campus. This group of FFA members represent the highest number of members at the Appomattox County FFA Chapter to receive the degree of State Farmer in any one year in the history of the chapter, which dates back to 1928.

The degree of State Farmer, which is symbolized by a gold charm key with a certificate, was presented each recipient by the State FFA president, John Good. To be eligible for the degree, each candidate must have an active record of participation in the chapter activities, be able to lead a group discussion, have a satisfactory occupational experience program, be familiar with parliamentary procedure, demonstrated leadership ability, have a satisfactory scholastic record in high school, and be recommended by the local FFA Chapter. The number elected to the degree each year is limited to two percent of the total membership in the State Association. This year a total of 323 members received the degree among the membership in the Virginia FFA Association.

Members of the Appomattox County FFA Chapter that received the coveted degree of State Farmer were: Tim Burnett, Mike Gallier, Phillip Harris, Bobby Layne, Ricky Lewis, Calvin Mitchell, Marvin Mitchell, James St. John, Eddie Stratton, Mark Stratton, Steve Tanner, Russell Tomlin, and Brent Washburn.

Broken Cities

"He that hath no rule over his own spirit is like a city broken down, and without walls. Prov. 25:28."

Cities broken down; and without walls - Why? War can destroy them, leaving nothing but rubble. God's wrath can destroy them. Civilizations die. Archeologists dig in the ruin of ancient cities. They look for evidence of culture of the people who lived long ago, and hope to reach conclusions as to what caused that civilization to die. In many places in Mexico and Central America, ther e are ruins of the Maya culture, as well as those of the Toltec people and other groups. In the Middle East are ruins of the ancient of Baalbek, Babylon, Nineveh, and the site of ancient Tyre. Their glory and greatness. Their ruins are merely of historical interest.

Our text tells us that "he that hath no rule over his own spirit" is like anyone of the cities mentioned above, What a tragedy. No rule over one's spirit. Wishy-Washy, changeable, unstable, easily influenced by others. Such a course can bring only disaster – moral and spiritual disaster.

But one does not need to be spineless, spiritless. There is a Spirit that can give us all the strength, all the character, all the control, we will ever need. The Spirit Jesus promised to send (John 14:16,17) is ever near. When the forces of evil assail us, When temptation rears its ugly head. God's spirit is there to help us overcome, What a wonderful promise! What a wonderful Saviour! -Is Jesus Christ our Lord -No one needs to be like a broken city. The choice is ours -Remember, although God made a garden, Cain made a city and men who were afraid to trust the Spirit of God built Babel. Not to rule our own spirit makes us citizens of Babel, of confusion. To let God's spirit direct our lives marks us as citizens of 'His Kingdom." No enmies can ever – no never destroy us there, No natural disasters can hurry us. The wrath of God will not touch us because we choose to obey Him. What a glorious future awaits those who learn to control their spirit. This is a future to be spent with Christ. What a wonderful reward for conquering self by 'His Spirit." Remember! All the members of the "Little Friendly Church on Historical Appomattox – Court St. are awaiting to Church" on Historical Appomattox – Court St., wre awaiting to give you a cordial welcome –Come and bring some friends with you.

County Schools To Receive Library Funds

Virginia public schools will receive approximately $2,200,000 from State-aid library funds for the 1973-74 school year, the State Department of Education said last week.

Miss Mary Stuart Mason, supervisor of School Libraries and Textbooks for the Department of Education, said that allotments to localities are based on $1.85 per pupil in average daily membership. Last year's allocation amounted to $1.84 per pupil. Localities must provide funds equal to half State allotment.

Appomattox County allotment for the 1973 - 74 school year based on 2,380 pupils, has been set at $4,459.

Approximately ten percent of the total funds will be reserved to help establish new libraries in public schools.

Speakers Set For Family Resources Conference

Betty Freezor

Dr. LeBaron Mosley

Dr. LeBaron Mosley, chief of vocational counseling service of the Veterans Administration Hospital in Salem, Va., will be the conference banquet speaker on Wed., July 18. His topic is "Essentials to Healthful Living."

Dr. Mosley was an educational and vocational guidance officer with the Adjutant General Department during World War II. He previously conducted private school in Long Island, N.Y.

Among his numerous memberships in professional and governmental organizations, he is on the faculty of the University of Virginia Extension School, director of the Speakers Bureau of the Roanoke Mental Health Chapter, and a member of the Governor's Committee for Hiring of the Handicapped, and the State Mental Health Rehabilitation Committee.

Following the meeting on July 18 and 19, conference participants who are members of the Virginia Extension Homemakers Council will attend its annual business meeting to elect new officers and present six $500 scholarships. The council will be celebrating its 50th anniversary as it meets during the conference this year.

The third state Family Resources Conference, to be held at Virginia Tech in Blacksburg, Tuesday through Thursday, July 17-19, is open to all men and women in Appomattox County who are interested in improving family life, the community in which they live or their work with groups or organizations. Registration forms, which must be turned in by Friday, July 6, are available at the county Extension Office on Court St., said Becy Johnson, Extension Agent. Registration fee is $5.00.

"Happiness Is – Health? is the conference theme. Eight workshops discussing positive physical and mental health will be presented, Betty Feezor, television home economist and star of "The Betty Freezor show," will address approximately 350 persons expected to attend.

Conference participants will have a chance to attend three workshops of their choice during the Family Resources Conference, said Becky Johnson. Workshops will explore the psychology of living, community organization for changing culture, food facts and fancies, social issues facing teenagers, personal and family finance, preventive medicine, pollutions, and understanding the aging.

Civic groups, women's clubs, garden clubs, church organizations and other groups and interested individuals throughout Virginia are encouraged to attend, said Mrs. Johnson.

Homemaker Hints

by Rebecca M. Johnson, Extension Agent

June is many things to many people. Let's put aside our thoughts of graduations, weddings, and vacations for a few moments and think about "June is Dairy Month".

"June is Dairy Month" began in 1937, when June was the peak month for dairy production, and has been observed every year since then, technological progress has now made every month equally productive for America's dairy farmers.

Milk has earned the title of "the most nearly perfect food" because it contains most of the vitamins, minerals, protein, and carbohydrates necessary for growth and maintenance of the body.

Milk is always a bargain, and cheese may be the richest part of the bargain.

Cheese is made by separating the rich solids of milk (the curd), from the watery part (whey). The more than 400 different kinds of natural cheeses, as well as many processed cheeses, offer low-cost protein for your family's diet. Cheeses are also important sources of fat and minerals.

The price of cheese is not necessarily coincidental with quality. Buying a wedge can be as economically and nutritionally confusing to the consumer as choosing a cut of meat. Cheese that is sold in blocks rather than in rounds, wedges, or sticks costs less. Consumers also pay extra for cheese that is shredded, grated, or sliced. Cold cheese spreads are a big eraze, but can't pay forty-nine cents for a crock instead of a plastic container of cold pack cheese unless you particularly want the crock.

Cheese spreads in crocks and the type of cheese found in precut and wrapped luncheon slices are samples of processed cheeses, the fastest selling cheese products in supermarkets.

Pasteurized process cheeses are a blend of natural cheeses and other ingredients, and are easy to melt and blend with other foods.

To preserve your cheese bargains, they must be properly stored. Soft cheeses, such as cottage cheese, should be kept from three to five days in their original wrapper. Uncured cream or neufchatel cheese will keep two weeks. Hard cheeses such as cheddar and swiss will keep for several months unless mold develops. Moldy parts can be cut away.

Hard cheeses can be frozen thinly sliced in bulks of no more than o ne pound for up to six months. Mold and "sweat" on harder cheeses stored in the refrigerator can be prevented by a damp towel between the cheeses and the outer wrapper.
